

Richard Aldrich
Senior Vice President and Research Analyst
GE Commercial Finance Corporate Lending

Aldrich joined GE in 2004 as a Senior Vice President and Research Analyst. In this role, Aldrich provides in-depth research and analysis on the Automotive, Auto Parts, Steel, Metals and Mining sectors to help GE provide smarter capital solutions to clients. Prior to GE, Aldrich served as Manager of Corporate Development at Alcoa, a leading aluminum company. In this role he was involved in merger and acquisition valuation analysis, competitive benchmarking and portfolio divestiture activities. Previously, Aldrich held various senior positions with Lehman Brothers' Global Industrial Investment Banking Group focused on steel and nonferrous metal stocks. During his tenure at Lehman Brothers, Aldrich was recognized by The Wall Street Journal as an "All Star" and "Best on the Street" analyst in both the Metals and Steel categories. Aldrich received his BA from the University of Michigan Ann Arbor and is a member of the CFA Institute and NYSSA.
